Commission Report 82-12

March 1982

PREFACE

The Commission is pleased to make available this Directory of California Colleges and Universities. The Directory normally appears as part of the Commission's Guide to California Colleges and Universities. However, budgetary constraints preclude republishing the Guide in 1982. The Guide will reappear in 1983, provided funds are available. In the interim, this Directory is provided in order to make users aware of institutional changes which have been reported to the Commission since July, 1981.

The University of California, which opened in 1868 at a temporary location in Oakland with ten teachers and 38 students, is today one of the world's largest and most distinguished centers of higher education. Its nine campuses, which extend from Davis in the north to San Diego in the south, enrolled 138,700 students in the fall of 1981.

The University is governed by a 28-member Board of Regents which appoints the president of the University. With his advice, the Regents also name the chancellors, directors, and deans who administer the affairs of the individual campuses and divisions of the University. A University-wide Academic Senate of faculty recommends policy on admissions, the granting of degrees, approval of new courses, and other aspects of the academic process.

Eight campuses of the University (the San Francisco campus being the exception) have common admission requirements and similar student fees. Each campus, however, has its own organization, objectives, and academic style. Each offers undergraduate degree programs in a wide range of fields as well as graduate programs leading to master's and doctoral degrees. The San Francisco campus offers programs in the medical and health professions.

The University is designated as the primary state-supported agency for research and has exclusive jurisdiction over graduate instruction in the professions of law, medicine, dentistry, and veterinary medicine. It has sole authority among public institutions for awarding the doctoral degree with the exception that in selected fields joint doctoral degrees may be awarded with the California State University.

Hastings College of Law in San Francisco (pp. 52-53) is affiliated with the University of California. Although it remains administratively separate, its degrees are conferred by the Regents.

The Systemwide Administration of the University is located in University Hall at 2200 University Avenue, Berkeley 94720; telephone (415) 642-6000.

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY

The California State University was organized as the California State Colleges by the Donahoe Higher Education Act of 1960 and became the "California State University and Colleges" in 1972 when 14 of its 19 campuses were designated as universities. University status was subsequently approved for the Dominguez Hills and Sonoma campuses, and in 1981 the system acquired its present title. Its campuses are distributed throughout the State from Humboldt in the north to San Diego in the south. In fall 1981, they enrolled 319,850 students.

The system is governed by a 23-member Board of Trustees whose members are appointed by the Governor. The trustees appoint the chancellor, who is the chief executive officer of the system, and the presidents, who are the chief administrative officers of the individual campuses. An Academic Senate consisting of faculty representatives from each campus recommends policy to the Board of Trustees through the chancellor.

Each campus offers a broad range of occupational and liberal arts undergraduate degree programs and provides graduate instruction at the master's level. In addition, a limited number of doctoral degree programs are offered jointly with the University of California. While all campuses share some policies in common, such as standards for admission and general education requirements for graduation, each campus has its own distinctive social and academic character.

The Chancellor's Office of the system is located at 400 Golden Shore, Long Beach 90802; telephone (213) 590-5506.

CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES

CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES

The 106 Community Colleges constitute the largest of the three public segments of higher education in California and are also the most comprehensive system of two-year colleges in the United States. They offer a wide variety of programs and services to high school graduates and others who can benefit from the instruction provided. While limited to lower division offerings, the Community College mission is to provide training for technical and paraprofessional occupations, preprofessional education, general education, and community services. They serve students with transfer, employment, and continuing education objectives and award both associate degrees and certificates.

The Community Colleges are governed by locally elected boards of trustees, with general direction and leadership provided by the state-level 15-member Board of Governors which was created in the Statutes of 1967. Financial support is from local property taxes and the State General Fund. The Community Colleges are best characterized by their comprehensive programs and services, open admissions policies, and absence of tuition. In fall 1980, the Community Colleges enrolled over 1.4 million students.

Further information about all of the Community Colleges may be obtained from the Chancellor's Office of the California Community Colleges, 1238 S Street, Sacramento 94814; telephone (916) 322-4005.

OTHER PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

In addition to the colleges and universities within California's three segments of public higher education listed on previous pages, two other institutions are supported by the State -- the California Maritime Academy, and the Hastings College of Law -- and one by the federal government -- the Naval Postgraduate School.

CALIFORNIA MARITIME ACADEMY

The California Maritime Academy was founded by the Legislature in 1929 to educate officers for the United States Merchant Marine. Although its programs have been broadened over the years, the Academy's principal mission remains to supply well-trained, college-educated officers for the maritime industry. The Academy is under the direction of an eight-member Board of Governors appointed by the Governor of California. The Board of Trustees of the California State University provides administrative support for the Academy.

NAVAL POSTGRADUATE SCHOOL

The Naval Postgraduate School was originally established as the graduate department of the United States Naval Academy in 1909. Between 1945 and 1948 Congress designated the School as a separate institution and approved Monterey as its future home. The School was officially established in Monterey in 1951 to offer advanced education to commissioned officers. An 11-member Board of Advisors periodically visits the campus to examine educational programs and to consult with the superintendent of the School.

HASTINGS COLLEGE OF LAW

The Hastings College of Law, founded in 1878, is affiliated with the University of California, serving as its law department in San Francisco. An eight-member Board of Directors, through its executive officers, has the primary responsibility for administration of the College. The Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court serves as president of the Board. The Degree of Juris Doctor is conferred by the Board of Regents of the University of California upon all graduates.

ACCREDITED INDEPENDENT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES
CLASSIFIED UNDER EDUCATION CODE SECTION 94310(a)

The most outstanding feature of California's 304 independent colleges and universities is their diversity of programs, character, and academic emphases. Their offerings range from single occupational specialties to a full array of bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs as well as extensive professional and research activities.

The oldest independent institution in California was established in 1851; the most recent in 1981. Enrollments range from three students at a single-purpose institution to over 27,000 students at a multi-purpose university. Total fall 1981 enrollment was estimated to be 178,000.

One hundred and thirty-seven of California's independent colleges and universities are accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education or by the Committee of Bar Examiners for the State of California, and thus are permitted to grant degrees under Section 94310(a) of the California Education Code, which requires each institution to file with the Superintendent of Public Instruction an annual affidavit stating that it is so accredited. (For further information on California's laws allowing the issuance of degrees, see Appendix B on pp. 135-141.)

Accreditation is an activity of peer review by educators to assure that the educational operations of an institution reflect quality. Institutions accredited by agencies recognized by the United States Department of Education meet national standards of quality set by these agencies rather than minimum state standards and enjoy wide acceptability in transfer of credit.

Some colleges and universities that are headquartered in other states operate branches in California. Such branches of accredited institutions are listed on pp. 123-127 below.

NONACCREDITED INDEPENDENT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES
CLASSIFIED UNDER EDUCATION CODE SECTIONS 94310 (b) AND (c)

NONACCREDITED INDEPENDENT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES
CLASSIFIED UNDER EDUCATION CODE SECTIONS 94310 (b) AND (c)

Nonaccredited independent colleges and universities may grant degrees under California law if they operate an "approved" program under Section 94310(b) of the Education Code or are "authorized" under Section 94310(c).

APPROVED UNDER SECTION 94310(b)

Forty-six nonaccredited institutions conduct programs approved by the California Superintendent of Public Instruction under Section 94310(b). To win approval, the institution must complete an intensive self study and submit a detailed report to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who then names a special committee to visit and evaluate the institution and assure that its program is consistent in quality with those of established institutions. Students enrolled in approved programs may be considered for financial aid by the California Student Aid Commission.

AUTHORIZED UNDER SECTION 94310(c)

The remaining 131 nonaccredited institutions listed here have been authorized to grant degrees under Section 94310(c) of the Education Code, which requires an institution to own at least $50,000 of assets devoted to education and to file with the Superintendent a statement about its operations that is verified as truthful and accurate. Authorized institutions are prohibited from claiming that the State has made any evaluation, recognition, accreditation, approval, or endorsement of their course of study or degrees.

Appendix B on pp. 135-141 contains further information about California's laws allowing non-public institutions to award degrees.

CALIFORNIA'S LAWS ALLOWING THE ISSUANCE
OF DEGREES BY NON-PUBLIC ENTITIES

OF DEGREES BY NON-PUBLIC ENTITIES

Pp. 137-141 reproduce Information Bulletin Number 5 (February 1978) of the State Department of Education's Office of Private Postsecondary Education, which describes State statutes regulating the granting of degrees in California by non-public institutions.

The Office of Private Postsecondary Education serves as the representative of the Superintendent of Public Instruction in carrying out these statutes.

Further information about the Office, which is separate from the California Postsecondary Education Commission, may be obtained from either its Sacramento or Los Angeles offices listed on page 141.
